

Personal Pronouns

Personal pronouns refer to people or objects. They can directly replace the noun in a sentence.

I, you, he, she, it, we, they, me, him, her, us, them

Emily is going to play with the children.

She is going to play with them.

I like ice cream.

Ice cream is my favourite food.

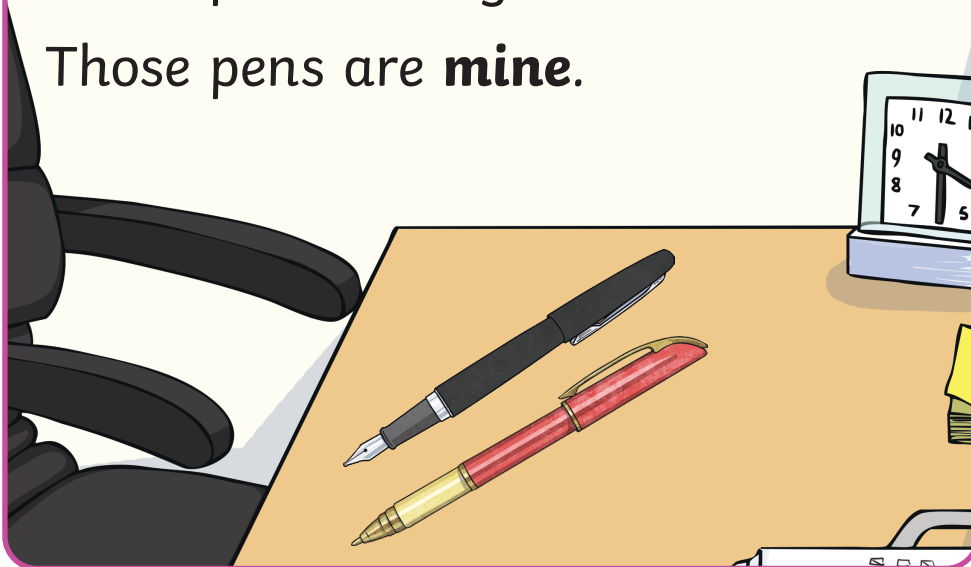

Possessive Pronouns

Possessive pronouns are used to show who owns, or can be linked to, an item.

mine, yours, his, hers, ours, theirs

Those pens belong to me.

Those pens are mine.

Can you grab Abdul's coat please?

Can you grab his coat please?

Reflexive Pronouns

Reflexive pronouns are words ending in -self or -selves and are used when the subject and object of a sentence are the same.

myself, yourself, himself, herself, itself, oneself, ourselves, yourselves, themselves

I hurt myself when I tripped on the ball.

Jayne thought to herself, "I wonder where the glue is..."

Relative Pronouns

Relative pronouns are words that link a subordinate clause to a main clause.

that, which, who, whose, whom, where, when

The boy, who has brown hair, is called Daniel.

The girl helped her friend when he fell, which was very kind.

Demonstrative Pronouns

Demonstrative pronouns are words that show distance (in time or space) between a noun and the speaker. They can also show whether the noun is singular or plural.

this, that, these, those

Single Noun

Plural Noun

Noun is close

Would you like to share some of this cake with me?

Would you like to share some of these cakes with me?

Noun is far away

Would you like to share some of that cake with me?

Would you like to share some of those cakes with me?

Interrogative Pronouns

Interrogative pronouns allow a question to be asked about a noun.

who, whom, whose

Refer to people

which, what

Refer to things

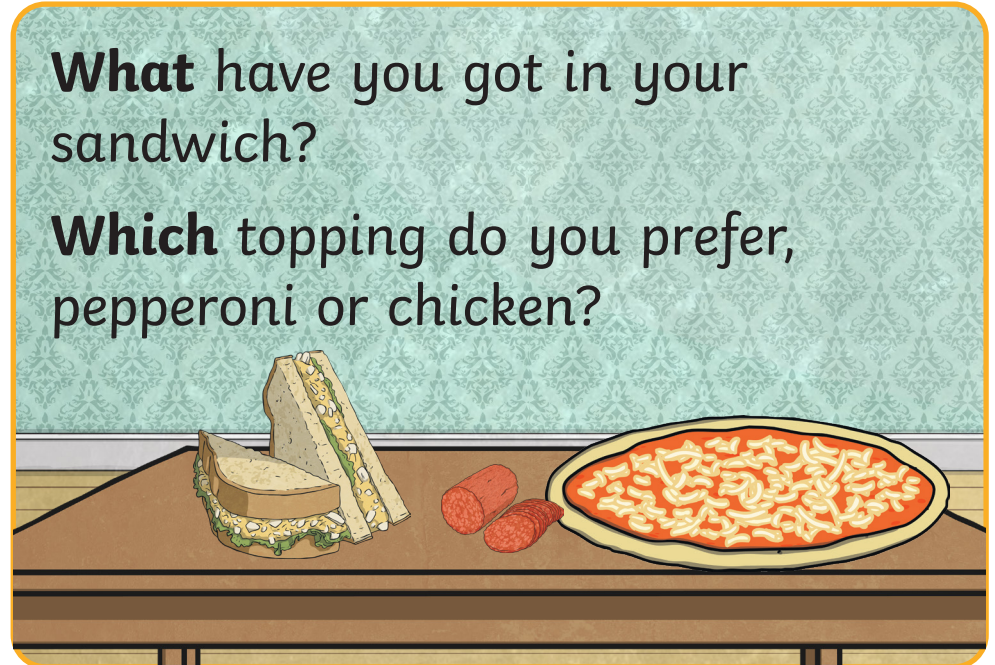

Who is talking to Amina?

Whose sweets are those?

What have you got in your sandwich?

Which topping do you prefer, pepperoni or chicken?

Indefinite Pronouns

Indefinite pronouns are used when the noun is not specific.

anything, anybody, anyone, something, somebody, someone, nothing, nobody, none, no one

