18th November 2014

Dear Sandie,

I have recently had the opportunity of reading your SIAMS report dated 14th October 2014.

I am sure that you, your colleagues and governors are delighted to receive such a positive report. I would like to thank you, for all the hard work that has gone into building 'excellent relationships ... based on the understanding of Christian values'.

There are many outstanding features recognised in the report and these are a result of all the hard work that you, your staff and governors have put into creating a school community where everyone knows that they are valued. It is good to notice that the 'adults provide excellent role models displaying Christian values which are mirrored by the pupils'. It is also encouraging that your RE is recognised as making 'a considerable contribution to the pupils' SMSC development'. Parents have rightly recognised that the school's Christian ethos is a 'spiritual compass' that provides pupils with 'skills and information to make up their own mind'.

I would be grateful if you would pass on my thanks and congratulations to all your staff colleagues and governors for their hard work and commitment.

I trust that you will have a very happy end to the year and that the school enjoys its Christmas celebrations.

Yours sincerely,

David Thorpe
