English

Add an appropriate subheading to the paragraph below:

The saltwater crocodile is a fierce carnivore, which means it is a meat-eater that hunts other animals for food. These powerful predators are not picky eaters and will snap up anything they can catch, including fish, birds, frogs, and even larger animals like wild pigs. Because they are cold-blooded, crocodiles have a very slow metabolism and do not actually need to eat every day; in fact, a large crocodile can survive for several months without a single meal after eating a big feast!
